

Acacia redolens

'LOW BOY' GROUNDCOVER ACACIA

Tough as nails groundcover. 'Low Boy' is an evergreen, woody plant that can grow to variable sizes, but stays lower than most. Thick, leathery gray-green leaves cover woody stems with bright yellow catkin-like flowers appearing in spring. These plants are low water use, but will appreciate regular irrigation to get established. Pruning for size can be done almost anytime with these durable plants, but know that when they are trimmed hard or repeatedly they will become woody and lose their more herbaceous appearance. Suitable for large open spaces, slopes or erosion control projects in low deserts or coastal environments. Easy-to-grow, cultivate, and maintain, just give them space to spread.

DESCRIPTION
	2 FT., UP TO 15 FT.
	FULL SUN
	USDA ZONE 8-11
	AUSTRALIA
	YELLOW
	LOW TO MODERATE
	TO 15°F