

Cassia artemisioides

(Syn. Senna artemisioides)

FEATHERY CASSIA, OR FEATHERY SENNA

Feathery, silver foliage with bright yellow blooms. Quintessential Australian shrub with pinnate gray leaflets they can shimmer attractively with even a slight breeze. Covered in bright yellow blooms from spring into summer followed by papery seed pods. These versatile shrubs are easy to care for, slough off low desert heat and grow rapidly with regular irrigation. Although they can take shearing and often do in commercial landscapes they can be manipulated for size and shape with minimal annual thinning and pruning. If plants are to be sheared, it is best to do this task directly after flowering to remove any unwanted seed pods.
