Chitalpa tashkentensis

CHITALPA 'PINK DAWN'

Hardy flowering accent tree. These interesting intergeneric hybrids are a cross between Catalpa bignonioides x Chilopsis linearis almost 60 years ago in Uzbekistan. The cross created cold hardy, small flowering multi-trunked trees well suited for dry upland mid to high desert landscapes. Open irregular shaped with long green lanceolate leaves much wider than our native desert willows. 'Pink Dawn' was and is the most popular cultivar offered today with large light pink tubular flowers.
