

Dalea frutescens

BLACK DALEA

Bold purple blooms on a tough tidy shrub. Like other Dalea sp., they require well-draining soils, but these medium sized plants can shrug off low desert heat and tolerate cold, dry winter locations in high deserts. Late summer to fall brings masses of amethyst purple pea-like blooms to these naturally rounded growing shrubs. When planted where they can fill out naturally, they require little to no maintenance. These green herbaceous looking shrubs pair well with other bold accents, gray-green shrubs, groundcovers or mixed flowering perennials.
