

Nerium oleander 'Red'

RED STANDARD OLEANDER

Classic evergreen, flowering shrubs, or small trees. Standard or full-sized oleanders, are vigorous, upright growing large evergreen shrubs with long, dark green lance shaped leaves on gray woody stems. They have many practical uses, such as for screening, large formal blooming hedges, to small single or multi-trunked accent trees. They work equally well for residential as well as commercial landscapes. Flowers of standard oleanders are large and bright, blooming from spring to summer. Flowers are followed by clustered seed pods that look like skinny, dark brown cigars. These can be pruned off in late summer. Extremely heat and drought tolerant plants. Full-sized oleanders can be maintained at about 10 ft. high with pruning, but cutting them shorter than this usually prevents flowering. If shorter plants are required for the space, choose a Dwarf variety.
