Prunus persica 'Bonanza' Dwarf Peach

DWARF BONANZA PEACH

This is a dwarf peach tree suitable for large containers or in-ground planting for edible gardens with small spaces. They are deciduous trees, which are reliably self-fruitful and produce well in the low desert gardens. Long, curved lance-shaped bright green leaves follow bright pink early spring blooms. Like other dwarf trees, 'Bonanza' peach is precocious, tending to set fruits the first season after planting, but thinning any first fruits is recommended for the long-term success of the tree. Pruning for shape and tree health should be done during dormancy in mid-winter. Regular water during the summer months, especially after fruit set. Fruits are freestone, fuzzy orange with reddish blush with sweet juicy yellow flesh. They ripen mid-season.
