PLANT DETAILS

Rosmarinus officinalis 'Tuscan Blue'

'TUSCAN BLUE' ROSEMARY

Hardy, dark green upright shrub with aromatic foliage. Rosemary plants have short needle-like, dark green resinous foliage that emits a distinctive fragrance. They are known and used commonly as rich culinary herbs. 'Tuscan Blue' is a vigorous vertical form with dark green leaves and dark blue flowers. You'd be hard pressed to find a more adaptable and picturesque shrub for mesic and Mediterranean landscapes designs. Their naturally upright form is perfect for foundation shrubs, medium sized evergreen hedges, solitary accents or containers. They are clean enough to be used around patios or pool areas, but the flowers do attract bees. They are tolerant of heat, and drought with some cold tolerance to around 20°F. They can be grown in some shade but they perform best in full sun. They must be planted in well-drained soil but are not too particular about the pH.
